This page is going to tell a story about the projects I am involved in. Each project will have a short description and, whenever possible, the excerpt of an existing article (the latest or a randomly selected one).

I am rebuilding my site – home excerpt

A short description (one or two sentences) about the project.

The latest article and a short excerpt. If the reader is a returning one, a random article will be displayed instead of the latest post.

I am rebuilding my site – the page

Priority: Should

This page is displayed when the user clicks on the category link. It overrides the default Wordpress functionality:

Category: I am rebuilding my site

I AM REBUILDING MY SITE

Planning and priorities

It displays the site releases. Each release has a short description, how long it was active, a series of relevant screen snapshots, and a list of interesting technical topics which I addressed while building it.

Each release will have a code name. Most probably, they will be the names of some characters I like. The decision to use that specific name will be explained to the readers.

I wanted to become a writer – home excerpt

A short description about what this section is going to contain. It will be randomly selected from an existing set (3 – 5 items).

COMING SOON

All the other sections will contain the same structure.

Single post

This page displays the post content. At the end, it displays the two previous, and the two next articles in the series:

Previous -2

Lorem ipsum dolor sit amet

Previous -1

Consectetur adipiscing elit

Next +1

Lorem ipsum dolor sit amet

Next +2

Consectetur adipiscing elit

Play with Russian adjectives and nouns

Standalone application. Wordpress will be just the outer shell.

Affiliations

As I am going to give a lot of links with the products I use in my daily activity, I need to make it clear to my readers that there is no affiliation with those companies or individuals.

This information should come at the end of each article, hence the footer being the appropriate place to put it.
